325 Koroit Street, Warrnambool

An emerging senior international sprinter for New Zealand in the late 1990s / early 2000s, Jeremy developed substantial domestic and international track and field experience over his 10-year career that has helped inform his coaching. A highlight was touring with the New Zealand and Australian World Championships teams through Canada in 2001.

Jeremy's coaching philosophy looks to balance physical training with the mental resilience required for success in both sport and life. He brings a passion for developing athletes and a strong focus on injury prevention and efficient training for longevity. Jeremy also understands that each athlete is unique and creates tailored training strategies and an atmosphere that responds to the needs of his athletes. In 2018 he created Inner Speed and Power to help achieve this.

Jeremy is motivated about ongoing learning and refining his own coaching toolbox through regular courses, professional development, and connecting in with his network of coaches both in Australia and New Zealand.

Outside of sport and coaching, Jeremy works full time and has a diverse corporate management background which includes General Manager of a Top 10 Australian Law Firm and he is currently the People and Resilience Executive responsible for the People portfolio of a regional water utility which includes performance, coaching and development. He is a graduate of the Australian Institute of Company Directors (GAICD) and Fellow of the Australian Institute of Managers and Leaders Australia (FIML).
